What is revocation of parent's consent?

Minor guardianship is a voluntary process where the parents have consented to the appointment of a guardian. Once a parent is ready to resume their parental duties, they must revoke that consent in order to end the guardianship.

What is the process to end the guardianship?

When a parent is ready to resume care of the minor, they will complete the included Petition to Terminate Guardianship asking the Court to end the guardianship. Once the request has been submitted to the Court a hearing will be set, at which time a judge will decide whether to end the guardianship.

Should I see a lawyer for help?

Court cases can be very complicated, and even if you are representing yourself you should see a lawyer for legal advice about how the law applies to you and what is best in your particular situation. This might save you time, money, and trips to court and help you to avoid serious mistakes. There are lawyers who will help you on a limited basis. They will only charge for giving the help you need, and you can complete the court papers on your own or ask the lawyer for help.

For more information, call the Self-Service Center at (520) 724-8456 and ask how to find an attorney.
