General Information & Frequently Asked Questions

This symbol is a warning that the topic can be confusing. Please talk to an attorney if you need help.

This packet contains general information, instructions and court forms for you to complete and file with the court.

When should I see a lawyer for help?

Court cases can be very complicated, and even if you are representing yourself you should see a lawyer for legal advice as to how the law applies to you, and what is best in your particular situation. This might save you time, money and trips to the courthouse, and help you to avoid serious mistakes.

There are lawyers who will help you. They will only charge you for giving you the help you need, and you can complete the court papers on your own or ask the lawyer for help with your papers. For more information, call the Self-Service Center at (520) 724-8456 and ask how to find an attorney.

Where is the Self-Service Center?

The Self-Service Center is located in the Pima County Law Library, Room 256, on the second floor of the Superior Court House [110 West Congress Street, Tucson Arizona 85701]. They are open from 8am to 5pm Monday through Friday (except holidays). For more information, call (520) 724-8456 or email pcll@sc.pima.gov.

What if my spouse and I can't come to an agreement?

Mediation is for parents who need help in writing a parenting plan for their minor children. If you and your spouse cannot agree on how legal decisions will be made for your children or when the children will spend time with each of you, you will be required to attend mediation where you will meet with a neutral third party to work out a parenting plan. Mediation is a free service through the Conciliation Court. You can ask for mediation with Packet #15 Mediation.

What is Joint Legal Decision-Making?

Joint Legal Decision-Making means that parents make decisions together about the children.

What is Sole Legal Decision-Making?

Sole Legal Decision-Making means that only one parent makes decisions about the children.

What is Parenting Time?

Parenting Time refers to the time that you physically have with your children. This time used to be known as visitation and it may be given to the parent who does not have legal decision making rights for the children. The amount of time given to each parent is decided with the children's age(s) in mind. Parenting time varies between marriages and will not always be the same for everyone.

What is Visitation?

Visitation means a schedule of time that occurs with a child by someone other than a legal parent, such as a grandparent. This is not to be confused with parenting time.

When deciding how much parenting time to order, the best interest of the children will always be kept in mind.

Parenting time and legal decision-making are complicated issues and often require legal assistance and advice. This will help you understand your rights towards legal decision-making and parenting time, as well as what arrangements are in the best interests of the children.

The court may require that a parent's visitation with his or her children be supervised.

Supervised parenting time is not meant to punish the parent, but to protect the child. Supervised parenting time may happen when there is:

- Drugs or alcohol abuse
- Violent or abusive behavior
- If the parent does not have the parenting skills to care for the child.

The only time a parent receives no parenting time is when there is a court order saying that the parent shall not see the child. This can be because:

- A parent has seriously abused the child.
- A parent is a serious danger to the child's emotional and/or physical health.

What is a Parenting Time Plan?

You must write a legal decision-making proposal for the judge. The proposal will include how you and your spouse plan to act in the best interests of the children. The Parenting Plan has to be included in your Dissolution of Marriage Decree if you have children.

It is important that you and your spouse work together in making this proposal. Disagreements and emotional situations should not get in the way of helping your children. Your children should always come first.

The best interest of the child is ALWAYS the court's main concern. Here is what the court will consider:

- The past, present and potential future relationship between the parent and the child.
- The family interactions and strength of relationships.
- The child's possible adjustment to a new home, school and community.
- The wishes of the child, if the child is old enough.
- The mental and physical health of everyone.
- Which parent is more likely to allow the child contact with the other parent.
- If one parent has misled the court on purpose.
- If there has been domestic violence or child abuse.
- The nature and extent of pressure used by one parent in getting an agreement.
- If one parent is convicted of false reporting of child abuse or neglect.
- Whether a parent has attended the Domestic Relations Education Course on Children's Issues (Parent Information Program).

This plan must be REASONABLE and specific. Do not just write "reasonable parenting time" in the Parenting Plan. What is "reasonable" to one parent may not be "reasonable" to the other parent. This may cause disagreements later.

If you and the other parent are not able to work out a plan for decision-making through mediation, then you may need to consult an attorney.

There are sample Parenting Time Plans and Pima County Access Guidelines at the Self-Service Center. The Self-Service Center is located in the Pima County Law Library, Room 256, on the second floor of the Superior Court House [110 West Congress Street, Tucson Arizona 85701]. They are open from 8am to 5pm Monday through Friday (except holidays). For more information, call (520) 724-8456 or email pcll@sc.pima.gov.

Sample Parenting Time plans are also at the required Domestic Relations Education Course on Children's Issues or at <http://www.azcourts.gov/Portals/31/ParentingTime/PPWguidelines.pdf>.

PARENT INFORMATION PROGRAM

In every divorce case that involves minor children, both parents must attend a “Domestic Relations Education Regarding Children’s Issues” class. The purpose of this class is to help parents understand the affect that divorce or changes in legal decision-making (what used to be called Custody) and parenting time (what used to be called Visitation) can have on children.

There is a fee for this course but this fee may be deferred or waived along with other court fees if you qualify. See Packet #12 Deferral/Waiver of Fees/Costs for the forms and instructions to do this.

Attendance at this class is mandatory for both parents. You will not attend at the same time, and you are not responsible for the other parent’s attendance. The court will not hear or grant any request for legal decision-making or parenting time by this parent until the class is completed.

For more information, you can call (520) 724-5590 or visit the Conciliation Court web page at: www.sc.pima.gov/fccc

PLEASE NOTE

Child Support:

Receiving joint legal decision-making power of a child does not eliminate the fact that both parents need to support the child. This means that even when the child has nearly equal time and contact with both parents, one parent may still have to pay child support to the other parent.

Domestic Violence: Joint legal decision-making is not awarded in situations where one parent has been convicted of domestic violence or if there is evidence that domestic violence occurred.

Parents who have a history of domestic violence may need to seek advice from an attorney because of the harm that family violence causes children.

Criminal offenses: If a parent has been convicted of a drug charge or a DUI, then the court may not put the child with that parent, as it may not be in the best interest of the child.

This parenting plan is submitted by both parents. We understand that joint legal decision-making does not necessarily mean equal parenting time. We agree that this plan is in the best interests of the child(ren). We have included a specific schedule for parenting time, a procedure for periodic review, and a procedure to resolve proposed changes, disputes and alleged breaches may be mediated or resolved. Both of us agree that all of the above decisions regarding legal decision-making and parenting time were made voluntarily and without undue influence and neither of us were under duress or coercion in making these decisions. This legal decision-making and parenting time plan is logistically possible.
