What is Sensitive Data?

Sensitive data, or sensitive information, is information that you might not want other people to see. Sensitive data includes your social security number, bank account number, credit card number, and other financial account numbers.

Court documents, for the most part, can be seen by anyone. If you need to include any of the information listed above on court documents, you should write “SEE CONFIDENTIAL SENSITIVE DATA FORM” on the document. Then you need to fill out the Confidential Sensitive Data Form. This is where you will include the actual sensitive information. This is important because the “Confidential Sensitive Data Form” will not be seen by the public.

This symbol is a warning. It can mean a few different things:

- The topic can be confusing and you may need to ask a lawyer for help.
- You may need to make sure that something is done.

Whenever you see this symbol, make sure you read the information carefully and understand it fully.

Do I need to update the form if any of the information changes?

If you ever need to give the court new information, then you should file an updated Confidential Sensitive Data Form. Include all other sensitive data forms that you have already given the court, plus any new sensitive information that you need to tell the court.

If you include “sensitive data” in documents filed with the court, with the exception of using the Confidential Sensitive Data Form, you do so at your own risk.
